

2012 Montirius Gigondas Terres des Aines

Add to Print List

RATING:	89 points
PRODUCER:	Montirius
FROM:	France Gigondas, Southern Rhone, Rhone, France
VARIETY:	Proprietary Blend
DRINK:	2014 - 2022
ESTIMATED COST:	$21
SOURCE:	eRobertParker.com, #216 (Part 2) Jan 2015

Moving to the Gigondas releases, the 2012 Gigondas Terre Des Aines gives up lots of crushed rock, wild herbs and underbrush to go with a core of dark fruit. Made from 80% Grenache and 20% Mourvèdre, enjoy this medium-bodied, elegant and nicely balanced Gigondas over the coming 7-8 years.

-Jeb Dunnuck

2012 Montirius Gigondas Confidential

Add to Print List

RATING:	91 points
PRODUCER:	Montirius
FROM:	France Gigondas, Southern Rhone, Rhone, France
VARIETY:	Proprietary Blend
DRINK:	2014 - 2022
ESTIMATED COST:	$33
SOURCE:	eRobertParker.com, #216 (Part 2) Jan 2015

In the same ballpark as the Terres des Aines, and also the same blend/élevage, the 2012 Gigondas Confidential comes from a single parcel of vines and is 80% Grenache and 20% Mourvèdre that, like all the wines here, is brought up all in cement tanks. It offers up outstanding notes of dark fruits, black raspberry, wild herbs and pan drippings, medium to full-bodied richness and lots of Provençal character. Opening up nicely in the glass, it too will shine over the coming 7-8 years.

-Jeb Dunnuck

2013 Montirius Gigondas Confidentialiel		<input type="checkbox"/> Add to Print List
RATING:	90 points	Similarly styled, the 2013 Gigondas Confidentialiel has high quality aromas and flavors of black raspberry, cassis and leafy herbs, medium to full-bodied richness and a rounded, supple, sweetly fruited style that's already hard to resist. I love the purity here, and it has fine tannin that frame the finish, all suggesting it will evolve gracefully. Made from 80% Grenache and 20% Mourvèdre, it should drink nicely through 2023. -Jeb Dunnuck
PRODUCER:	Montirius
FROM:	France Gigondas, Southern Rhone, Rhone, France
VARIETY:	Proprietary Blend
DRINK:	2014 - 2023
ESTIMATED COST:
SOURCE:	eRobertParker.com, #216 (Part 2) Jan 2015

2013 Montirius Gigondas Terres des Aines		<input type="checkbox"/> Add to Print List
RATING:	89 points	As to the 2013s, I was able to taste the two Gigondas releases, both of which were solid. Starting with the 2013 Terre des Aines, it's a pretty, fruity, forward and supple effort that gives up lots of blueberry, blackberry, violets and hints of leafy herbs in its delicious, hard to resist style. Drink it over the coming 4-6 years. -Jeb Dunnuck
PRODUCER:	Montirius
FROM:	France Gigondas, Southern Rhone, Rhone, France
VARIETY:	Proprietary Blend
DRINK:	2014 - 2020
ESTIMATED COST:
SOURCE:	eRobertParker.com, #216 (Part 2) Jan 2015	